FLYTIPPERS RUN UP £2M BILL FOR TAXPAYERS IN ONE YEAR

Rubbish that was left on land off Jackson Street in Lye

FLY-TIPPING is costing taxpayers more than £2 million a year with an average 90 incidents taking place EVERY DAY.

Figures from the Department for Environment, Food & Rural Affairs show that there were 824 fly tipping incidents in Dudley last year.

But the situation is even worse in neighbouring boroughs with 3,456 fly tipping incidents in Wolverhampton last year, and even that was well below the 4,599 in Walsall, which left that borough with a £350,000 clear up bill.

There were 4,140 incidents in Sandwell which cost Sandwell Council £250,000 to clean up.

An investigation by our sister paper the Express & Star found there were 32,569 reports of waste being dumped illegally to councils across the Black Country, Staffordshire, Shropshire and Birmingham last year – a 16 per cent increase from 2012/13.

Organised criminal gangs who offer to dispose of rubbish at a knockdown price are believed to be behind 'industrial scale' dumping seen in recent months.

It costs the region's councils £1.8m to remove dumped waste last year and a further £580,000 to investigate offences.

But only £54,706 was recouped through fines at court with authorities taking just 58 prosecutions.

And only 456 fixed penalty notices were issued last year in the Midlands which would have returned between a further £54,000 and £182,000.

In May 2016, councils were given the power to impose £400 fixed-penalty notices for fly-tipping. But critics say that for criminal gangs – or even ordinary householders – it is worth taking the risk because the fine can be cheaper than hiring a skip for a fortnight. Rising waste charges and moves to fortnightly bin collections have also been blamed.

West Midlands Police and Crime Commissioner David Jamieson said travellers, who he likened to 'roving vagabonds' were behind some of the large scale dumping.

There were also 417 cases in South Staffordshire.

HEALTH*Medical practice is told to improve

A MEDICAL practice has been told to improve after inspectors found problems with the check-ups on emergency medical supplies.

The Care Quality Commission found faults with Pedmore Medical Practice's safety and leadership and rated it as 'requiring improvement' in the latest inspection. But the practice on Pedmore Road has appealed the CQC's decision, citing 'inconsistencies' in the latest inspection.

The health watchdog said three areas, out of five, 'required improvement', under the headings of 'safe', 'leadership' and 'effective'.

But inspectors also found its care and responsiveness was 'good'.

LEISURE*ScaryCanary music venue set to close

ScaryCanary, on High Street, started out as a fashion store before launching a music venue three years ago. It will remain open until March 31 with events planned for the final four weeks.

Road closures during work on sewer

SEVERN Trent is planning to spend half a million pounds to increase the capacity of its sewers in Stourbridge to help prevent flooding that has affected a primary school in the past.

The company will install bigger sewers under the Bells Lane area of Wordsley to increase the capacity by 350,000 litres, so helping make sure Ashwood Park Primary School and local residents are not affected by sewer flooding in the future.

And engineers leading the project are now inviting local people to find out more about the scheme, which is scheduled to start at the end of March.

Seng Cheah, from Severn Trent, explains: "We're making a big investment in the area but it'll be worth every penny if it stops the flooding issues that local people have been experiencing in the past.

Questions

"Sewer flooding is the last thing anyone wants to deal with and that's why we've taken the decision to upgrade our network for the future but, before we begin work, we want to speak to local people about our plans and to invite them to join us at our drop-in session to ask any questions they may have."

The session will take place at Ashwood Park Primary School in Bells Lane, Stourbridge between 4pm and 6.30pm on Thursday (March 16). Seng added: "Our contractors from Amey will begin work on Monday, March 27, and the project should be completed by the end of the year."

"We're working hard to minimise disruption to the local community while we work but we'll need some road closures to make sure our engineers can work safely. We'll make sure fully signposted diversions are in place and will allow access to homes and businesses. Hopefully everyone will realise that the huge benefits of the project will be worth the minor disruption."

Robber fails in bid to get his custodial sentence cut

A TEENAGER from Stourbridge who claimed he was bullied into holding up four corner shops with a replica pistol has failed in a bid to have time behind bars reduced.

Nathan Harper was just 16 when he terrorised staff at the shops in Stourbridge, Quarry Bank, Wollaston and Brierley Hill. He was locked up for 54 months at Wolverhampton Crown Court in September last year.

He was convicted of four counts of possessing an imitation firearm, three robberies and one attempted robbery.

Harper and two accomplices carried out the raids in just under three hours in September 2015, London's Appeal Court heard.

The now 18-year-old tried to force staff to hand over cash by brandishing an imitation pistol but the raiders fled empty-handed from all but one shop – Kingsway Stores in Wollaston – where they grabbed cigarettes off the shelves.

Harper, who can now be named after reaching adulthood, challenged his sentence, claiming it was too harsh. Harper, of Churchward Close, Stourbridge, was of previous good character and claimed he was 'bullied and intimidated' by the older pair.

But Mr Justice Holgate, sitting with Lord Justice Treacy and Judge Griffiths-Jones, said: "There were severe aggravating factors in this case."

"We consider that the judge cannot be criticised for the sentence he imposed."

"For this reason the appeal is dismissed."

Coroner suspends stabbing inquest

A MOTHER who died from stab wounds was carried into a Rowley Regis GPs' surgery, an inquest heard.

Black Country Coroner's Court was told that Tina Billingham, of Granville Road, Cradley Heath, had suffered two stab wounds, one to the heart and another to her stomach and liver.

Senior coroner's officer, Stephen Binley, explained that the injured 54-year-old was carried from a van into the medical centre on Hawes Lane at around 3.50pm on February 6.

Ronald Cooke, 54, of Granville Road, Cradley Heath, has been charged with murder.

Senior coroner Mr Zafar Siddique, said: "I am formally suspending this inquest until the conclusion of the trial."

Officer faces the axe after harassing an ex girlfriend

A POLICE officer from Dudley faces losing his job after admitting harassing his ex-girlfriend, a court heard.

Dean Hickens pretended to be a former partner of his ex Carrie Stimpson, also a serving police officer with West Midlands Police, in text messages in order to check whether she had had an affair.

He also tried to change her Facebook login details and drove past her house in the early hours to see if there was someone else there. Hickens, aged 42, of Dingle Close, admitted harassment without violence.

Mr Tim Talbot-Webb, prosecuting, told Wolverhampton magistrates: "This was a relationship of five years and the couple had been living together. Carrie left the home and it wasn't a happy break-up."

"Mr Hickens went about a course of action that amounted to harassment."

Miss Sue Swann, defending, said Hickens was now on medication for depression and anxiety.

She said: "He knows that he will lose his job. The consequences of this will be devastating for him and in my opinion is a very harsh punishment."

Hickens was sentenced to a 12 month community order, including 20 days of rehabilitation activity, and an eight week curfew between 8.30pm and 7am. He must pay £135 in legal costs, an £85 victim surcharge and £250 compensation.

A spokesman for the force said PC Hickens would now face internal disciplinary proceedings and his future with the force would be considered.

Bid to tighten rules on smoke

DUDLEY Council is set to implement a borough-wide order enabling them to take legal action over illegal chimney flues.

At a meeting of the authority's cabinet yesterday (Wednesday), councillors were being asked to approve a new smoke control order in accordance with the Clean Air Act 1993, to declare the whole of the Dudley borough a 'smoke control area'.

This will make it an offence to emit smoke from a chimney unless caused by use of an authorised fuel, or by the use of a fireplace on an approved list.

The council says there are 1,029 properties and 28 areas of land, where buildings could be built, that are not subject to the current smoke control order.

Killing inquest is adjourned again

AN inquest into the death of 24-year-old man fatally stabbed in Brierley Hill has been adjourned again while police hunt suspect Niron Parker-Lee. Mansoor Mahmood, of Bagus Walk, Brierley Hill, died on October 15.

Burglar jailed after raid on radio studio

A CALLOUS crook who broke into a church to strip £8,000 worth of equipment from a community radio station is starting a two-year jail sentence.

Cocaine addict Jason Pettit knew the code to St John's Reform Church in Stourbridge because he had used its food bank, Wolverhampton Crown Court heard.

The 38-year-old deactivated the intruder alarm and headed for the room at the rear of the building where Black Country Radio had its studio, explained Mr Waheed Baber, prosecuting.

The defendant then stole speakers, mixer and balancing units, an amplifier and other items before fleeing with the haul during the night of September 8.

Volunteer staff discovered the break-in when they arrived for work early the following morning and the radio station was off air for 18 hours until replacement equipment could be installed.

Pettit disabled CCTV cameras at the scene but missed one which recorded the break-in and led to his capture. A police officer was shown the footage and recognised the offender who was on licence from prison.

Traced

Pettit was arrested at his home on September 20. None of the stolen property has been recovered and a second person involved in the crime is still at large.

Mr Lewis Perry, defending, said: "He was funding his cocaine habit and maintains that somebody else had given him the combination code."

"He now wants a fresh start away from associates and drug debts."

Pettit, of Stourbridge Road, Stourbridge, admitted the burglary.

He was jailed for two years by Recorder Michelle Heeley QC, who told him: "You burgled a church. It takes a special kind of low to commit that kind of offence."

"They were trying to provide a community service and you took their equipment. Then you told a bare-faced lie on your last appearance by saying it was not you on the CCTV footage."

Taxi drivers 'up in arms' as police link stabbings

A TAXI driver and another man were stabbed in two attacks during the early hours in Stourbridge which are being linked by police.

The taxi driver was knifed by a passenger at the BP Petrol Station in Pedmore Road, Lye, at around 3.50am on Saturday.

The victim was left with a hand wound and crashed into a stationary car as he tried to get away. The attacker, thought to be with a group of four or five men and women in the taxi, fled the scene.

Just 20 minutes afterwards police found another man with stab wounds less than two miles away in Stourbridge town centre.

The injured man was discovered in an alleyway off St John's Road, Stourbridge Ring Road, at around 4.10am.

The 31-year-old was taken to hospital, where he was treated for two stab injuries to his stomach, one to his back and two cuts to the head. Detectives believe the attacks, which happened in the early hours, are linked and have launched an investigation.

They say the violence is thought to be linked to an altercation between a group of men near to The Arena Nightclub, on Hagley Road.

Running

Detective Sergeant Chris Jones said: "It is believed there had been an earlier dispute between a group of men at a bus stop near to The Arena Nightclub, which then continued into the town centre. This resulted in a man being stabbed and a group of men and women were seen running from the scene.

"We have launched an investigation and so far it's clear that both attacks are linked. I am appealing for anyone who may have seen either attack or who has any information to contact us on 101."

Shaz Saleem, chairman of the Dudley Taxi Association has hit out at the latest attack on a taxi driver in the borough, saying 'enough is enough'. He said: "I'm really angry and the whole trade is up in arms. What will it take for these incidents to be taken more seriously? One of our drivers could get killed. We need to get more support from the police as these incidents are reoccurring. It's getting ridiculous."

Last month cabbie Sheakh Arbaz suffered was beaten up in Dudley by two passengers who stole his takings. There have been more than 3,000 attacks on taxi drivers in the West Midlands during the last decade.

Call to save mental health centre

Joy Collins and other campaigners protest on the steps of Dudley Council House over closure of Dove House

DEMONSTRATORS gathered outside Dudley Council House to protest at the closure of a mental health centre as part of cost-cutting measures.

The protesters are all service users of Dove House, who rely upon its support to manage a range of mental health conditions.

Despite its importance to these vulnerable people, the council has decided to revise its current funding contract with Dudley Mind.

Leading the demonstration was service user Joy Collins, of Netherton, who regularly attends the centre. The 52-year-old said: "If this goes I won't have anywhere else I can go and it's the same for other people. They don't realise how little things can make a big difference."

Dudley North MP Ian Austin brought up his opposition to the closure in the House of Commons.

Adult social care boss Councillor Qadar Zada said: "The unprecedented funding cuts imposed on us by central government mean that we face difficult decisions about the services we provide."

Free parking trial is to be considered by council

FREE parking could be trialled across the Dudley borough to encourage residents to visit smaller towns for shopping.

It is hoped that the plans will boost the economy in Sedgley, Halesowen, Brierley Hill, Kingswinford and Dudley town centre.

It has been recommended that if the free parking is successful, Dudley Council should consider rolling out two-hour free parking in council-owned car parks across the rest of the borough too.

Opposition councillor Paul Brothwood said: "UKIP have been calling for free parking for a number of years but unfortunately the Labour and Conservatives voted down our motion."

"I think the trial, which will hopefully result in free parking, will benefit local businesses, which have had a difficult time."

"We have to get people back in our towns and free parking is a catalyst for that. We want to get shoppers back to our great towns and free parking is a good idea to start with."

Council officers are putting a report together on the issue.

Councillor Hilary Bills, cabinet member for environmental services, said: "We are currently exploring plans for a free parking pilot in Dudley borough following a motion at full council. We will have more details over the coming weeks once discussions have taken place with members."

A decision will be made in the coming weeks.

Doctor is in court on assault charges

A DOCTOR has appeared in court charged with sexually assaulting five patients.

Dr Amirul Haque, aged 32, is alleged to have committed five sexual assaults while working at a surgery in Dudley early last year. Some of the alleged victims were said to be women who had gone for check-ups over sore throats and earaches.

Haque, of Ladypool Road, Balsall Heath, Birmingham, did not indicate pleas to the charges against him during a brief appearance at Walsall Magistrates' Court.

But his solicitor told the court that his client intended to deny the offences at a further hearing. Magistrates granted Haque conditional bail to appear at Wolverhampton Crown Court on March 29.

Driver cut free from wreckage of his car

Council to debate issue of leisure centres axe

A PETITION opposing closure of three leisure centres in Dudley borough has reached its deadline, after being signed more than 4,000 times.

Campaigners to save the existing centres – in Dudley, Stourbridge and Halesowen – said that they would push for a full council debate on the matter.

Dudley Council wants to demolish Halesowen Leisure Centre, Dudley Leisure Centre and Crystal Leisure Centre in Stourbridge, and replace them with two new centres, probably in Dudley and Lye. The council say this will save money as the older centres will be expensive to update.

Development boss Councillor Khurshid Ahmed said it was likely to be three years before the plans came to fruition.

After gaining 4,491 signatures, former councillor and head of the Save Our Leisure Centres group, Tracy Wood said: "Quite a few councillors have pledged their support. People from the community are finally having their voice heard."

The council will debate the issue in a full council meeting. A feasibility study is under way and a public consultation will follow.

Dudley Council leader Councillor Pete Lowe said: "Is leisure provision in Halesowen an option? Absolutely." But he hit back at critics from the opposition Conservative group, adding: "What you can't do is argue one week for reduced council tax and then argue the next week for additional leisure provision."

Bull gets new look for a good cause

VISITORS to Birmingham's Bullring shopping centre next week will notice the iconic Bull statue donning a new heart-themed outfit, created by fashion students at Birmingham City University.

First-year fashion design students were tasked with creating a costume for the six-tonne Bull sculpture by Little Hearts Matter, Bullring's charity of the year.

Little Hearts Matter is a national UK charity offering help to those affected by the diagnosis of a single ventricle heart condition. From initial diagnosis, through treatments and into life at home, the Birmingham-based charity works with families to help when a child is diagnosed with half a working heart.

New Aldi store set to create 40 jobs

Aldi is coming to Kingswinford this year

A FORMER DIY shop in Kingswinford that has stood derelict for three years will be turned into an Aldi supermarket.

Council planners have given the green light for the budget chain to convert the Focus DIY store, in Dudley Road, into its latest store in the Black Country.

Residents have been calling for action over the boarded-up and run-down property, a site which has also been occupied by travellers.

It was announced that the popular German-owned chain wanted to take over the site at the end of last year and an exhibition held in Kingswinford met with a positive response.

The proposals will see the store building converted and the car park upgraded to provide more than 100 spaces. The former garden centre area will also be converted into parking.

The supermarket will cover 1,350 square metres. It is expected to create around 40 full-time and part-time jobs.

A planning spokesperson said: "As part of improved access arrangements there will be a new right turn into the site and a new parking area." Councillor Paul Bradley said: "I think this is an ideal place to have a supermarket."

Aldi stated: "The Aldi 'deep discount' retail store provides an amenity to the local area, which is currently lacking, along with the creation of jobs both now and at a later date. Aldi looks forward to becoming a considerate neighbour and part of the local community."

Aldi has opened several new stores in the Black Country recently, including in Oldbury and on the site of the former King Arthur pub in Dudley.

NEWS IN BRIEF

BT launches major recruitment drive

MORE than two dozen apprentices are being recruited by BT at sites across the West Midlands, including at its broadband hub in Walsall.

It is part of a nationwide recruitment campaign for 1,700 apprentices and graduates as the telecoms giant builds what it calls 'tech literacy' in its workforce, which now includes mobile phone firm EE.

EE is creating about 26 new apprenticeship jobs in the West Midlands, covering a variety of roles, from customer service, to vehicle maintenance, finance and cyber security.

61 new homes for Quarry Bank site

MORE than 60 homes have been approved by planners at Quarry Bank. Two and three-storey apartment blocks will be built at Rose Hill.

A total of 42 homes will be built under the plans together with 21 apartments which will be located in three separate blocks. Councillor Jackie Cowell, chairwoman of the development control committee, said: "Housing is something that we are in desperate need of across the borough. The site may not be ideal in some senses but we hope that any issues arising can be resolved."

WANTED: School-run parents top crime list

I'VE never been to the borough of Havering, east London, but it sounds like a jolly good place to live.

While the rest of Britain struggles with anti-social behaviour and reduced policing budgets, it seems that Havering is doing rather well.

Indeed, crime is obviously so low, and the police and council coffers so awash with cash, that they have decided to crackdown on the No. 1 law-and-order issue in the borough: stopping parents from taking their kids to school by car.

No, not just parents parking on double yellow lines or causing an obstruction. All parents. Even the ones who take great care not to inconvenience others.

The local authority has declared "exclusion zones" around four primary schools in the borough, which will be patrolled by CCTV cameras to catch any parents dropping their children off in the vicinity of the school.

Police officers, traffic wardens and PCSOs will also be asked to keep an eye out, lest any crafty parents manage to give the cameras the slip. Letters have been sent out warning parents they risk a £1,000 fine and criminal record if they do the school run. Talk of a sledgehammer to crack a nut.

Now you might not be too concerned about what happens in east London, but it's amazing how this sort of lunacy can gain traction once the PC mob gets behind it. Don't be surprised if it reaches the Black Country a few years down the line.

Of course, at this point, somebody usually chips in "how would you like it if somebody blocked your driveway," and the answer is, I'm pretty sure I wouldn't.

But causing an obstruction is illegal anyway, and I'm sure nobody would object to the Boys in Blue or the council dealing with that. But for people who drive and park their cars responsibly, why is it anybody else's business how they take their kids to school?

No doubt there are some people who just don't like having other people's cars outside their homes at all, even if they are correctly parked. But that, I'm afraid, is what happens when you buy a house opposite a school. So you don't have to drive your children to school.

Of course, there are also the fanatics who believe the school run really is a crime, and love nothing more than local government flexing its muscles to "change people's behaviour." People who have no idea about the reality of being allocated a school two miles from where they live, and then having to drive another 10 miles to be in work for 8.30.

Incidentally, the orders have been brought in using a Public Spaces Protection Order Act, introduced by David Cameron's government to tackle serious crime such as drug dealing. I wonder how Mr Cameron's kids get to school.

As Churchill would have said, the vote was won

Prof Armand Leroi claims The Beatles weren't great influence on pop music

Roy Hattersley – comparison between Brexit and Henry VIII's Reformation

Winston Churchill – one vote can be sufficient to secure a majority

'Tyranny' – how can they justify slogan?

THE BEST OF PETER RHODES

A NEW slogan – straight out of fairytale – has been coined by those disgruntled politicians who opposed, and still do so, the prospect of the UK pulling out of the European Union. It is: "The tyranny of the majority." Call me obtuse, or whatever you like, but I cannot for the life of me see how this mantra can be justified. A referendum was held and it was won by the Brexiteers. And as Sir Winston Churchill once said, if one vote will secure you a majority, then that is sufficient.

MEANWHILE, on the Sunday programme (Radio 4) Roy Hattersley made a neat comparison between Brexit and Henry VIII's Reformation nearly 500 years ago. He recalls that King Henry was irritated by the Pope, dissatisfied with the deal he was getting from Europe and was ruling over an insular race who "consider us better on our own".

AND while so many commentators bang on about "toxic Corbyn", few of them highlight the quiet appeal of Theresa May. She voted to stay in the EU but is now pushing ahead with Brexit because that is what the people wanted. You don't often meet a politician like that and I suspect the Tories under May won a by-election at Copeland that the Tories under Cameron would have lost.

IN a column for Waitrose magazine, John Humphrys refers to a "hilarious exchange" between President Trump and Humphrys' old BBC colleague Jon Sopel. In truth, it was not so much hilarious as shot through with cold contempt on both sides. Sopel and Trump clearly have no time for each other.

SOMEBODY opens the wrong envelope in Hollywood and it dominates the world's TV, radio, newspapers and internet for the next two days. No, I don't get it either.

PROFESSOR Armand Leroi is the evolutionary expert who claims The Beatles were not a great influence on pop music. He may well be right. The Fab Four were mould-breaking and magical, yet they were not widely imitated. But so what? Diamonds do not influence rubies and that doesn't make diamonds any less brilliant.

MEANWHILE, if you're old enough, cherish the memories. Professor Leroi is 52 so he could never have known that first semi-spiritual encounter with Sergeant Pepper, or the opening chords of Strawberry Fields Forever. We Sixties kids were transfixed by the genius of The Beatles who took us on a brief but unforgettable journey from Love Me Do to Let It Be. Bliss was it in that dawn to be alive, yeah, yeah, yeah.

BY coincidence, on the day this week that Tunisian police were accused of cowardice during the Sousse attack which left 38 people dead, our own anti-terror cops were on exercise at the Merry Hill shopping centre near Dudley. What a contrast. In Tunisia, a rag-bag assortment of fainters and panickers took as long as possible to get to the scene. In England, a tough, disciplined squad toolled up like Robocop seemed utterly fearless in the face of the enemy. Or so we would like to think.

A READER wondered why the NHS paid more for paracetamol than the rest of us pay in supermarkets, so he wrote to the Department of Health. Here's part of the department's reply: "Comparison of the margin found in the margin survey with the agreed target margin as part of the contractual framework determines whether there need to be any adjustments to payments made to community pharmacies." Sir Humphrey is alive and well.

"SURE, I know there are bigger issues, but microaggressions are a reality of the everyday existence of many people of colour." That anonymous email by a Cambridge student allegedly offended by "cultural misrepresentations" on his college menu, including Jamaican stew and Tunisian rice, will surely be recorded in the official history of the Snowflake Generation. How blissful your life must be if you have time to take offence at stew being mislabelled by the dinner ladies.

ONE account of this spat tells us that some students responded "with humour," including the one who texted: "Don't get me started on the Yorkshire puddings." But how can we be sure it is humour? For all we know, some Snowflake undergraduate from Harrogate could genuinely be sobbing him/her/gender-neutral self to sleep every night at the wicked misrepresentation of his county's delicacy. We live in fragile times.

INCIDENTALLY, the Cambridge college in question is Pembroke. How long before the Welsh take up arms over this geographical misappropriation of one of their towns?

MEANWHILE, back in cyberspace. . . . A reader tells me how his internet provider locked his account when he failed to change his password. And why did he fail to do so? Because the company's emails instructing him to change the password had all been dumped in his spam basket, by the company's own software. First, we put our letters in your bin. Then we punish you for not reading them.

TALKING POINT

I'd like to Believe in Better from advertisers

EVERY day, I'm being followed by someone, and it's getting a bit tedious. No, it's not through social media or, thankfully, in the street. The person I'm talking about is called Winston, as in the wartime prime minister whose voice is so closely linked with the principles of defiance you feel like standing to attention whenever one of his speeches is featured on TV or radio.

My 'stalker' answers to the surname Wolfe . . . the character who pops up in adverts putting the fear of God into everyone but who turns out to be a goody two-shoes. Trouble is, he's not really welcome in my world, as I just cannot get some of his spoken lines out of my head. "So, you're a landlord now; a property magnate" is permanently lodged in my brain.

In music terms, they're known as earworms: melodies and lyrics which can float away into the ether as quickly as they infiltrated your conscience. In the advertising world, they're obviously designed to catch the attention of the viewer or listener in the shortest time possible, and they're an absolute menace. And there is an array of catchphrases that could give Wolfe a run for his money.

Take, for instance, "For The Journey", "Play Makes It Possible", "Because You're Worth It", "Believes In Better", any one of which could be swirling around in your head right now.

It's not that these lack wit or imagination. Quite the contrary. Try these for size: "It Does Exactly What It Says On The Tin", "Every Little Helps", "I'm Lovin' It". All can be heard in all kinds of places up and down the country every day, having become convenient ways of saying something in just a few words.

Mind you, even in Adland, there can be some moments of confusion. On the radio, the line "You Do The Maths" rounds off its advert with a phrase which needs no explanation. But in the television version, it's . . . nowhere to be heard. The effect is like falling off the end of a supercontinent conveyor belt.

Which brings me back to Winston Wolfe and that poor chap who just wants to get on with his decorating. Anyone with a keen ear for voices will have noticed that Mr Wolfe's "victim" sounds nothing like the bloke in the radio version. "It's just my mate's old flat," the DIY-er warbles, confirming the characters are one and the same, even if played by different actors.

It's enough to make anyone ring up a painter and decorator to get the job done quick without the tough-guy interruptions. But does any of this really matter? Perhaps when all of this gimmickry has run its course, there might be a return to those halcyon days when the likes of "Put a tiger in your tank", "The appliance of science" and "It's good to talk" were expressions that summed up an emotion ahead of the capabilities of the merchandise being promoted.

Shameful proposals to cut leisure centres

HOW THE Labour councillors justify their proposals to cut leisure centres is downright shameful. Councillor Khurshid Ahmed tells us that the latest shock is that the centres are losing money. My question would be 'where are the figures for investment over the last 10 years?'

The budget for advertising and promoting the centres is zero. The Halesowen Leisure Centre Customer Forum was told this ages ago. Whenever Labour shut down and cut them they beat out the same old story and that is that everybody is losing money.

Watch out for bus lane booby trap

I FULLY sympathise with the reader who was caught out by a bus lane on leaving Railway Drive in Wolverhampton.

This happened to me recently on turning into Pipers Row after a delayed train journey from London.

The time was 2am!

I had made exactly the same manoeuvre some months prior without being caught so can only assume Pipers Row had been designated bus lane status since.

I challenged the notice claiming that buses were not running at 2am in the morning!

This was dismissed by Wolverhampton Penalty Charge Services, stating that bus lane enforcement applied 24 hours. Logical or what?

Wolverhampton is fast becoming a bus lane booby trap for unsuspecting motorists, so enter at your peril!

Council's bad move over town museum

SO Councillor Khurshid Ahmed is very proud that Dudley's fountain has been named as the winner of the Victoria Society's Birmingham and West Midlands Conservation Award.

What he should be ashamed of, on the other hand, is the fact that he and the rest of the council allowed the closure of Dudley Museum and Art Gallery.

The museum having gone from the centre of Dudley, is a very great loss to the town. Whoever thinks it is better to travel a mile out of town to see, and not all of, the wonderful items that were displayed in the beautiful building in Priory Street and St James's Road?

Access to the Archive building is not ideal and parking can be a headache.

Lowest of the low in church raid

IN the Elizabethan era and into the 19th century, there were highwaymen and footpads. It didn't matter how big a thief these highway robbers were, or how poor the people were, they never stole from a church.

The doors of church buildings were always left open for this was a place of sanctuary. They knew they were safe and so were the valuables in that building.

Christ Church in Coseley was broken into, a sanctified building was ransacked and all the money and valuables taken by the lowest of the low.

The silver candlesticks and vases were not decoration but memories of families and friends of the congregation.

I am sure the clergy and members of the church will be praying not just for the return of the valuables and the memories but, for the forgiveness of those who have caused the damage.

Memories remain of ferry disaster

Iain Yardley, from Dudley, interviewed survivors for his book

The capsized ferry Herald of Free Enterprise

ANDY Bridge was settling down in the bar on the ferry home, sat opposite his friend Lawson Fisher. Part of a group of seven teenagers who regularly drank at a pub in Stourbridge, they were relaxing as they prepared to return from a day-trip to the Belgian port of Zeebrugge.

Seconds later, he would see something that would remain with him for the rest of his life.

As the ship capsized, he watched a young woman plunge from one end of the boat to the other, knocking his glasses off seconds before crashing through a window to an almost certain death in the icy waters.

"She was a very smartly dressed lady in a herringbone suit, probably aged in her mid-to-late 20s, and she fell the whole width of the boat backwards through a window below," said Andy, then 19 and living at Clent.

It was 30 years on Monday, March 6, since the car ferry MS Herald of Free Enterprise capsized minutes after leaving the harbour at Zeebrugge.

A total of 193 passengers and crew perished in the freezing waters of the North Sea.

And while the majority of the 539 people on board survived due to the heroic efforts of the rescue services, the figure does not reflect the number of lives torn apart by the disaster.

Sue Haines watched helplessly as her boyfriend Rob Heard was swept away after losing his grip on a table. Soldier Brian Bunker saved several lives after refusing to be evacuated from the wreckage, only to discover that his wife Diane and baby daughter Nadine had been killed.

MARK ANDREWS on the Zeebrugge disaster 30 years ago, which resulted in 193 deaths

Ninety seconds was all it took for the Herald to capsize. From normality to unimaginable horror in less than the time it takes to boil a kettle.

This instantaneous nature of the disaster is captured by Black Country author Iain Yardley, who spoke to about 30 survivors over a seven-year period while researching his poignant book Ninety Seconds at Zeebrugge.

Iain, 44, from Lower Gornal, admits to feeling some guilt as he spoke to the survivors.

"Listening to and reading stories of what survivors and relatives went through was very difficult," he says. "I thought to myself 'who am I to intrude on their grief?'

However, I feel that the people I spoke to wanted to tell their story. It was very difficult for them. I still feel very honoured and humbled."

Three people from the West Midlands lost their lives: Mr Heard, from Coventry, 66-year-old Ivy Jackson from Burton-upon-Trent, and 42-year-old lorry driver Tom Peach, from Rugeley.

Mr Peach, who lived in Speechley Drive, was on his way back from a delivery job in Germany. He had only been working for Carman's Transport in Kidsgrove, Staffordshire, for three weeks, after two years on the dole.

A friend said that he had been "over the moon" at finally landing a job.

The Herald had been due to depart at 7pm local time, but was five minutes late. At 7.24pm it passed the outer walls of the harbour, and four minutes later it capsized.

Andy Bridge's party was made up of Lawson Fisher, 16, from Stourbridge, brothers Ian and Nick Wood, also from Stourbridge, Andrew Dingley from nearby Hagley, Ian Moore, 18 of Netherton, Dudley, and Alan Cartwright, of Brierley Hill.

Vanished

Andy, now 49, remembers how Lawson quickly vanished, moments after being sat opposite him.

"I didn't see him until we got back to the hotel later," he says. "I was hanging onto the chair and the water came up to my waist; we were in complete darkness and it was very cold. I just held on."

Only a sandbank prevented the ship from sinking completely, and the drama happened so quickly there was no opportunity for Captain David Lewry to send out a distress signal.

Luckily, there was a dredger Sanderas, working nearby, and noticing that all the Herald's lights had gone out, its captain alerted the port authority at Zeebrugge. Tugs were dispatched to surround the stricken ferry and a team of divers arrived by helicopter within 30 minutes. The Belgian Navy, on exercise in the area, also joined in the rescue. Andy Bridge says: "They threw down rope ladders, but it was too cold for me to climb one. Someone came down and got me."

Andy Bridge, originally from Clent, survived the disaster

There were thought to be a total of 459 passengers and 80 crew members on board at the time.

Townsend Thoresen was then one of the biggest operators in the highly lucrative cross-channel ferry industry, and the Herald and its sister ships were crucial to that success.

However, it seems that the pressure to stay ahead in the race across the channel led to a culture of corner-cutting in the company. It had become customary for Townsend Thoresen ships to depart with the bow doors still open, allowing vehicle fumes to escape the deck. These were normally shut just before the ship left the calm waters of the harbour.

Failed

However, assistant bosun Mark Stanley – exhausted after a grueling shift – overslept and failed to hear the call to report for duty.

The company management was accused of presiding over a "culture of sloppiness".

Judge Sheen's inquiry led to captain David Lewry being suspended for 12 months, and chief officer Sabel for two years, but corporate manslaughter proceedings against the company failed. By the time of the disaster, Townsend Thoresen had just been taken over by P & O, leading to the fleet being hurriedly rebranded.

Car vandals slash tyres and smashing mirrors

Resident David Hammonds views the damage done to his car during the wrecking spree by vandals

VANDALS have left the residents of a Black Country street fuming after a car wrecking spree.

Police have received several reports of cars being damaged in Stourbridge.

Tyres have been slashed and wing mirrors knocked off in and around Wheeler Street and the town's Old Quarter.

Tracey Blackman, a resident on Wheeler Street, where many cars have been damaged, said residents were furious. Her husband Joe's cars were targeted by the vandals.

The 33-year-old teaching assistant added: "It all seemed to happen over the space of one night, the majority of the cars in the street had their wing mirrors broken."

Worst

"We've had a few instances where something like this has happened before but this is the worst it's ever been."

"Two tyres on my husband's car were slashed just after Christmas and my car had its wing mirror ripped off."

"Everyone is angry, it's frustrating. I haven't been able to drive because I don't have a wing mirror."

She added: "There seems to be a lot of streets around the area complaining about the vandalism."

"Our street is one-way well-lit road which is completely residential so it's come as a surprise."

A spokesman for West Midlands Police said: "We are urging anyone who has had their car damaged to report it."

"Patrols have been stepped up in the area and witnesses are urged to call 101."

New committee will focus on tackling anti-social behaviour

COUNCIL leaders will set up a new committee aimed at tackling anti-social behaviour, which they say is 'on the rise' across Dudley borough.

The focus will be on 'nuisance neighbours' and anti-social behaviour in residential neighbourhoods. The panel will hear first-hand accounts from police officers and the council's anti-social behaviour team.

Councillor Dean Perks, who will chair the committee, said its aim was to improve the council's approach of tackling the issue and to improve co-operation with police.

The committee will be formed from the existing Overview and Scrutiny Management Board, which Councillor Perks also chairs.

He said: "Anti-social behaviour is a problem in Dudley, and I think it is slowly on the rise."

Better

"We will be focusing more around nuisances neighbours and neighbourhoods. We want to make Dudley a better place for residents to live."

The move has been welcomed by Dudley Council's leader, Councillor Pete Lowe, who felt the committee could prove 'effective' in tackling anti-social behaviour.

"I am happy that we can work in partnership with the police and other agencies to make sure we are as committed as possible to tackling anti-social behaviour," he said.

Committee members will hear from police officers, community leaders, from the council's anti-social behaviour team and councillors.

Councillor Perks said: "The idea will be to collect information and then we will make recommendations."

The first committee meeting will take place on March 28.

Low-down on high rises at meeting

DUDLEY Council tenants who live in high rise properties are invited to discuss issues relating to their estates at a dedicated meeting this month.

The council says that it actively supports and encourages its tenants and leaseholders to become involved in the running of their high rise blocks.

The High Rise Living Forum meets on a regular basis and is part of the council's Love Your Community campaign to engage and consult with residents about what matters to them.

The group discusses many issues relating to living within a high rise block and considers improvements.

The next meeting is set for Thursday, March 16, at the Saltwells Education Centre in Netherton, from 7pm until 8.30pm. Tea and coffee will be served from 6.30pm.

Anyone who wishes to attend should call (01384) 815168 to ensure it is still taking place, as it forum dates are sometimes subject to change.

Awards for life-saving blood donors

BLACK Country blood donors who have potentially saved the lives of up to 3,000 people have been honoured by the NHS.

The donors, who are from the Dudley and Sandwell boroughs, have collectively donated 973 units of blood over their lifetimes.

Their lifesaving efforts were recognised at a ceremony held at Aston Villa Football Club where they were presented with medals. The donors joined 38 others from across the West Midlands, where each person had donated on at least 100 occasions.

Teenager

John Mould, aged 65 from Amblecote, received blood at the age of 13, and since then has donated blood for the past 47 years.

He said: "Giving blood takes so little time but helps so many. Blood donors helped me as a teenager."

Jackie Banks, 53, from Sedgley has been donating blood since she was 18.

She said: "As we get older we never know what might happen. Ourselves or our families may need blood one day."

Other local donors included Lorraine James, 78, from Brierley Hill, and Martin Baker, 67, of Brierley Hill.

Better access for visitors in wheelchairs

NEW portable ramps will allow wheelchair users to access every station along the Severn Valley Railway.

The Severn Valley Railway Charitable Trust received a £75,000 grant from the Department of Transport last year, which will go towards making the railway and its stations more accessible for all.

Lesley Carr, spokeswoman for Severn Valley Railway Charitable Trust, said: "It's part of a much bigger project. We put in a bid to better what we're doing for disabled access for people."

"We've already got six or so disabled cars, but what we wanted to do as part of this project is to convert an unused carriage to become a wheelchair accessible carriage that will join the fleet next year."

"Another part of the project is that we're going to create a wheelchair accessible dining car, which will be the jewel in the crown but that work won't start until the other one is finished."

"As part of the bid for the grant we would like to replace the ageing collection of wheelchair ramps."

"We have ordered seven now so all wheelchair accessible carriages will have portable ramps with them."

"The overall project is we want every single train that we run to be accessible to wheelchair users."

Grant to help college students' relaxation

HALESOWEN College has received £9,000 from the Big Lottery Fund to enhance its Trim Trail to highlight mental health awareness.

The college is planning the new facility which could include a sensory garden and benches.

The area would be available for students and staff to sit and take time out for their health and wellbeing. The trail will open in Mental Health Awareness week from May 8.

Constructing a bright future for apprentices

THIS image is a first look inside of the new £12m Advance II construction centre at Dudley College.

Now nearing the final months of completion it shows the inside of the towering steel-framed structure taking shape in Priory Road.

The building work is set to be completed by June and the centre has already secured 80 apprentices.

It will be the first of its kind specialising in the latest construction techniques, technology and off-site fabrication.

Describing the new centre as a 'once in a generation project', Dudley College principal Lowell Williams said: "This is ground-breaking innovation that we are at the forefront of. We need to train people who are working in construction as if they are digital engineers."

"We will be the first building in the country offering that on a large scale using brand new apprentice standards."

Funded

"It is also the biggest skills project that the Black Country Local Enterprise Partnership (LEP) have funded."

The new 37,000 square feet building will include workshops, classrooms and support facilities around a four-storey building called The Hanger.

There will also be a digital centre and other facilities include a car-booster friendly technology centre.

Mr Williams continued: "We have had a lot of support to make this happen. This is a once in a lifetime project for the Black Country."

"We currently have a 3D map of the site. You can go into the control room and put on a helmet and look around it as you were in and peel away the layers. It really is like something out of a sci-fi movie."

"As the construction industry modernise's it will create many more manufacturing jobs. This is a real opportunity. We have already secured about 80 apprentices."

At the start of this year, it was also revealed that the college were going to be at the forefront of the new Dudley Academies Trust.

They will plough about half a million pounds into the trust to kick start the process of bringing together Castle High School, Hillcrest School and Community College, Holly Hall Academy and High Arcal School, so that they can share resources and expertise.

After a recent visit Dudley North MP Ian Austin said: "It's brilliant to see the new Advance II, the college's new Centre for Advanced Building Technologies being built. I've worked hard to support Lowell Williams and his brilliant work at Dudley College which has transformed the town with fantastic new facilities, bringing thousands of students to Dudley, boosting the town centre and strengthening our economy."

Concern over bed blocking problem on hospital wards

BED blocking has reached an 'all-time high' at Russells Hall Hospital with more than 150 patients ready to be discharged taking up beds on the wards.

Health chiefs said the number of medically-fit patients unable to be shifted was 'unacceptable'. It comes during a winter when the hospital has been struggling to cope with 'unprecedented' pressure on A&E.

Russells Hall has been unable to discharge dozens of patients, who are either waiting to go home or to be moved into social care, meaning beds are not being freed up for people who need them.

Hospital bosses said the situation was a major problem.

The number of people no longer needing to be in hospital has shot up since Christmas with the most up-to-date total being 154.

The hospital has struggled to free beds throughout the winter.

At the end of January the Dudley Group NHS Trust, which runs the hospital, said 682 out of 723 beds were full, more than the 85 per cent which NHS safety guidelines state should be the maximum.

Warning

Record numbers have been filing into the A&E at the Dudley hospital, which prompted a warning before Christmas for people only to come in if they had a serious condition.

Paul Bytheway, chief operating officer at the Dudley Group NHS Trust, said: "The number of delayed transfers of care continues to be a challenge for the trust, with the number of patients who are medically fit to leave hospital but unable to do so at an all-time high."

"This is due to the well-documented pressure across the whole health and social care system and an increase in the number of patients with complex needs who need ongoing support after discharge."

Neighbour Michael Morgan said: "My thoughts are with all of her family."

Sandwell's Cradley Heath and Old Hill councillor Caroline White said: "It's devastating to hear and its awful news for the family, my thoughts are with them."

The victim is believed to be a woman who was aged in her 30s.

The death was not being treated as suspicious.

Two fire crews from Haden Cross and one from Oldbury fire stations attended the fire at 12.05pm.

Station Commander Dean Harris confirmed: "Unfortunately the fire resulted in fatal injuries".

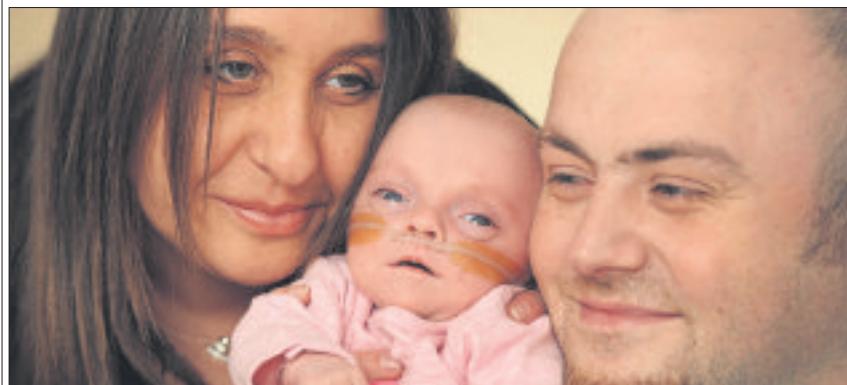

Neighbour Michael Morgan said:

"My thoughts are with all of her family."

Sandwell's Cradley Heath and Old Hill councillor Caroline White said:

"It's devastating to hear and its awful news for the family, my thoughts are with them."

28 weeks premature Savannah comes home

Little battler Savannah Payne-Cooper with parents Claire and Robert at home in Netherton after arriving 28 weeks early

A COUPLE are celebrating having their baby home to Netherton after she was born 28 weeks premature and doctors had warned she may not survive.

Savannah Payne-Cooper was born on November 1, 2016, months before her due date, weighing just one pound five ounces.

After being told by doctors during a check-up that their baby was not developing as normal, Claire Payne-Cooper, a 34-year-old family support worker, and her 35-year-old husband

Robert, a retail supervisor, were dealt another blow when told there was a high likelihood they could lose their baby.

However, little Savannah beat the odds and, despite still needing oxygen, she is now weighing four pounds and back at home in Lyndale Road, with her loving parents.

Claire said: "When we were told by a doctor that she may not make it, it absolutely destroyed us.

"When the doctors told us that she was in good health despite her size, it was an unbelievable feeling, we were delighted. She is back home now and it is wonderful to have her here. We were in hospital for 11 weeks, she came out just four days before her due date. She is getting stronger all the time."

Now the couple are planning to thank doctors, nurses and staff at Russells Hall Hospital, New Cross Hospital and Birmingham Women's Hospital by raising money at a fun day organised for April 2 at Brook Street Community Centre in Tipton. They have already raised £518.

Prime time TV boost for Lye real ale

A BLACK Country-brewed ale served up on beautiful sandy beach beside the Indian Ocean.

Eagle-eyed viewers of the Sunday night ITV drama The Good Karma Hospital will have spotted bottles of Sadler's Red IPA Golden Ale Red being served up by actor Neil Morrissey, who plays barman Greg McConnell in the hit series.

It was a surprise to the Ley brewery's sales director Ian King, who had sent 24 bottles of the ale to production company Tiger Aspect last July. But he had then forgotten about the delivery – until the brewery's moment of TV fame.

He said: "I forgot all about it until the Sunday night. My partner said my phone kept ringing, I checked it and everyone was saying the beer was on TV. It was just great to see it on TV, providing us excellent exposure."

The ale, which is stocked in by ASDA supermarkets, has since seen a 50 per cent surge in sales.

The production company chose Sadler's due to its connections with hit TV series Peaky Blinders, with the brewery launching a special ale to mark that hit TV show, which is partly filmed at the Black Country Living Museum in Dudley.

Mr King added: "I chose the ale because it is one which goes with Asian cuisine."

Visitor accolade for the canal and tunnel trust

DUDLEY Tunnel and Limestone Mines have received a accolade as part of VisitEngland's Visitor Attraction Quality Scheme.

The popular Birmingham New Road attraction received the 'Best Told Story' award.

Jeff Luesley, Chairman of Dudley Canal and Tunnel Trust, which runs the attraction, said: "We are delighted to have received this accolade from VisitEngland."

Cavern

"Our regular daily 45-minute boat trips bring the history of the mines to life with on-board commentary, a music and light show in the Singing Cavern, a video show in Little Tess Cavern explaining how limestone was formed and mannequin displays in Hurst Cavern depicting miners working during the 18th century."

"It is thanks to decades of restoration and development work by the Dudley Canal and Tunnel Trust that this wonder of 18th century engineering, with a history dating back 428 million years, welcomes more than 100,000 visitors a year to enjoy boat trips into the tunnel system."

At Dudley Tunnel and Limestone Mines' £3 million visitor centre, named The Portal, as well as embarking on their boat trip visitors can enjoy an interactive exhibition in the Biffa Award Gallery. They can also browse in the Trust's gift shop or enjoy waterside dining in The Gongoozler restaurant, which gets its unusual name from the word that means a person who enjoys watching activity on the canals.

The VisitEngland accolades are allocated through a scoring system based on an annual assessment.

Trust chairman Jeff Luesley showed the Princess Royal around the attraction last year

New speed cameras on order for busy route

SPEED cameras will installed on a notorious stretch of the Birmingham New Road within weeks following calls for action by road safety campaigners.

Highways bosses revealed cameras had been ordered and would go up on the bend near Woodcroft Avenue, on the Dudley and Tipton border, near the busy junction with Priory Road.

Speed cameras have been switched off in the Black Country for the past four years but Dudley Council has made the Birmingham New Road a special case due to persistent calls to improve safety on the route used by thousands of drivers every day.

Dudley councillor Ken Finch has been among those campaigning for measures to cut speeding and said he was delighted cameras would be coming back.

Old speed cameras remain up on the road to act as a deterrent but have been switched off since 2013.

Listening

Councillor Finch said: "It has taken a lot to get this far. This is what it is all about, trying to save lives and in my opinion this shows officers have got to start listening to councillors and people who live in these dangerous areas."

"Hopefully these speed cameras will make drivers think twice."

The 40mph Birmingham New Road was recently named among the top five roads in the Black Country where drivers had been caught speeding during 2015/16. A total of 428 motorists were caught out by mobile police cameras with the fastest clocked at 92mph.

Concerns have also been aired about drivers leaving the Foxyards estate who have to pull out onto the Birmingham New Road.

Dudley North MP Ian Austin said speeding on the road was a real problem.

He added: "We've been working hard to improve road safety on the Birmingham New Road so I'm delighted to hear that our campaign has paid off, but credit is really due to residents who organised the petition and have been pressing the council to make these improvements.

"I think this shows what we can achieve when we work together."

Dudley Council's environment boss, Councillor Hilary Bills said: "We have ordered these speed cameras. All we are waiting for is for the company to provide them."

"They are ordered and I hope it will be very soon."

On the run for St Patrick's Day fun

ORGANISERS of the big St Patrick's Day festival and parade in Birmingham are adding a fun run to the Irish festivities in the second city.

As part of the Birmingham St Patrick's Festival and Parade on March 12, the Emerald Mile is set to start at 10am outside South and City College.

It is the first time that the run has been added to the programme of events to mark St Patrick's Day.

Supporters, including Event Signs and Motorpoint, have pledged their support to the Emerald Mile event which will see up to 250 people take on a two-mile course along the parade route to raise money for charity.

The main parade will take place along Digbeth High Street between noon and 2pm. Birmingham's St Patrick's Parade goes back to 1952 and was the first in Britain. The parade has taken place in Digbeth since 1996 and increasingly mirrors the multicultural nature of Birmingham.

Government asked to give Dudley a fair deal

DUDLEY Council has hit out at the Government claiming that it is being unfairly treated over funding.

Councillors are officially calling for a fair deal for the town with a motion at the full council meeting.

After seeing its funding plummet by £76 million since 2010, angry councillors from the ruling Labour group declared that enough is enough and gave stark warnings about further cuts if funding levels from Westminster continue to be slashed. Opposition Conservative group leader Councillor Patrick Harley dismissed the move as political grandstanding.

There were also claims that Tory strongholds in the south were not experiencing the same level of cuts.

Councillor Asif Ahmed, ward member for St James's, who brought the motion, said: "This council has done the best it possibly can with the financial resources available to it. If the Government continues in this manner we will soon be in a position where we can only provide statutory services." Council leader Pete Lowe said: "The truth is that Dudley is being subjected to much deeper cuts than elsewhere across the country."

ELC closes shop at Merry Hill centre

Early Learning Centre will be available within the centre's Mothercare store after closing its dedicated shop. THE Early Learning Centre is closing down its shop at the Merry Hill shopping centre.

The shop on the upper mall of the Brierley Hill mega-mall will shut its doors for the last time on Monday, March 13. Company bosses say they 'regret' the store closure but put it down to a 'larger transformation' of their business.

The major Black Country shopping centre has also seen in recent months the closure of Sainsbury's and BHS.

ELC is owned by Mothercare, which will still run one shop at the shopping centre, located on the lower mall.

A spokesman said: "We will be emailing our customers in the local area to advise of the changes and provide details of the nearest store, Mothercare Dudley, which houses an Early Learning Centre shop in store. We greatly value all our customers in the area and would like to thank them for their continued loyalty and support for Early Learning Centre. Whilst we regret the closure of the store, it is part of a larger transformation plan for our business."

Bosses at intu Merry Hill said they were 'sorry' to hear of the store closure but said new brands would be setting up at the site.

Fire service want mayor rather than police boss

THE West Midlands Fire Authority is set to be taken over by the region's new mayor after bosses ruled against coming under the wing of the police and crime commissioner (PCC).

The authority could also combine powers with rural services in Staffordshire and Shropshire.

A report to the West Midlands Combined Authority's board by Sandwell councillor and WMFA's chair John Edwards says merging services across the wider region could save money and improve standards.

The WMFA's committee voted unanimously to come under the governance of the Mayor of the West Midlands Combined Authority at a meeting last week.

"We are also committed to maintaining the neutrality of the fire service. We are humanitarian and not law enforcement, which gives us a special relationship with the public," he said.

PCC David Jamieson has yet to indicate a preference.

Mr Edwards added: "Bringing together fire services across the region is a possibility we have been looking at for some time. This is partly because our budgets have been under the cosh since 2010."

Budgets

Mr Edwards said the committee believed it was 'by far the best option going forward' after fears were raised that falling under the control of the region's PCC could threaten fire prevention budgets.

"We have agreed to embed on a journey that will see fire and rescue services in the West Midlands move under the governance of

Home in on advice for building plans

COMPETITION

TODAY there are more people looking for a home in the West Midlands than there are homes to choose from.

As monthly demand rises by more than 20 per cent The National Home-building & Renovating Show returns with its largest exhibition ever at Birmingham's NEC from March 23-26.

The show will have more than 500 exhibitors, 16 free daily seminars and 35 masterclasses over four intense days. And not only do our readers have a chance to win a pair of tickets, with 20 pairs up for grabs, but we are also offering an amazing first prize, a set of Lithe Audio Bluetooth Ceiling Speakers & Passive Speaker Kits worth £269.99.

Experience

The show, sponsored in Birmingham for the first time by Everest Home Improvements, a British company with over 50 years' experience in double glazed windows, conservatories, doors and more, will host over 15 resident property experts, some of whom are regular TV presenters.

They will be on hand to discuss all renovating and building queries alongside companies which will introduce their latest services and products from industries including design, architecture, financial services, kitchens, bathrooms, doors and windows, ventilation, heating, planning permission and much more.

There will be advice and guidance, and real case studies present to talk about their experiences with consumers who are facing similar challenges throughout all stages of their projects.

On Saturday, visitors will have the opportunity to hold 15-minute consultations with celebrity experts who star in their favourite TV property programmes. Charlie Luxton, sustainable architectural designer currently presenting 'Building the Dream' on More 4, will talk about eco living, new architectural ideas and homes of the future. Julia Kendell, interior design expert for BBC's 'DIY SOS', ITV's '60 Minute Makeover' and 'Rebuild Our Home', will give inspiration to those revamping their properties.

Readers can win a set of Lithe Audio Bluetooth Ceiling Speakers & Passive Speaker Kits worth £269.99

The show's resident DIY Doctor, Mike Edwards, will be hosting demonstrations to inspire visitors to take matters into their own hands and address some of the key aspects of their projects without the help of a contractor.

He will prepare tutorials on topics from installing insulation to coating walls, which will help transform a home into a better place to live and encourage both men and women to roll up their sleeves, which will ultimately save time and money. For self-builders the Advice Centre is a hub for impartial guidance.

Hospital staff service awards

THREE staff at West Midlands Hospital have received awards for years of loyal service.

Employees Sue McDonnell, Dorothy Taylor and Carol Andrews have clocked up 35 years between them at the Halesowen-based private hospital.

All three staff members received flowers and certificates in recognition of their efforts over the years.

Staff nurses Dorothy Taylor and Carol Andrews have each worked at West Midlands Hospital for 15 years, while Sue McDonnell has been a healthcare assistant in the hospital's outpatients department for the last five years.

Dorothy said: "I love working here and it's a close knit hospital with a great atmosphere."

Plans for up to 100 homes on former landfill site revealed

THE site of a former tip in Dudley could be transformed after plans to build homes were revealed.

Up to 100 homes could be built on the old Woodsetton tip on Bourne Street.

Developer Ideal Estates wants to build on the former landfill site which has not been used for around 30 years.

But the development plans have led to concerns in the area about waste buried underground being disturbed and the impact on wildlife.

Several attempts have been made to develop the land over the years but all have either been rejected or withdrawn.

Ideal Estates was prevented from building homes in 2011 but has now come back with fresh proposals.

The area is classed as a site of local importance for nature conservation and Natural England has previously objected to applications to build on the 2.9 acre site due to fears of disrupting wildlife.

An outline application for a residential development has been lodged with Dudley Council.

Woodsetton's Councillor Adam Aston said he was extremely concerned about what had been put into the land over the years and the prospect of it being unearthed.

He said: "I am very concerned and so are a lot of people who live around it.

"There is quite good evidence stuff was tipped in there which shouldn't have been. I'm really concerned about digging it up."

A design statement submitted with the plans on behalf of Ideal Estates said: "It is clear that the proposed development creates the foundations for a high quality and sustainable new place.

"Proposals respond to the specific challenges of the site and will bring about significant improvement to the local environment.

"The development will provide new residential opportunities while remediating a contaminated site.

"On this basis, the scheme should be welcomed and supported."

Motown night for volunteers

ULTIMATE and Dudley Council for Voluntary Service (CVS) charity have combined again to bring The Ultimate Soul and Motown Night back to Brierley Hill Civic tomorrow (Friday).

After a trio of successful events last year, Ultimate are back with the sound, and Dudley CVS running the bar with all profits going to the charity.

Brierley Hill Civic has the biggest sprung dance floor in the area. James Challis, from Dudley CVS, said: "We now have a fantastic venue running really well and it's a treat to welcome back The Ultimate Soul and Motown Night. Last year's nights were some of our most popular."

Tickets are £5 in advance from www.TicketSource.co.uk or £6 on the door from 8pm.

Listed protection for memorial

Quarry Bank RBL's Eric Homer, Colin Scott, Vilma Griffin and Dennis Griffin

A GARDEN and memorial commemorating those who died during wars has been awarded grade II listed status, more than 80 years after its creation.

The Quarry Bank Peace Memorial and Garden in Stevens Park was first unveiled in October 1931, at a dedication by the Dean of Worcester.

It was to provide a place to remember the 148 local men who lost their lives during the First World War. Over the years the memorial and garden has been added to in order to remember those killed in later conflicts with 50 names from the Second World War and one from the conflict in Afghanistan.

Now Historic England have granted the peace garden listed status protection. It was originally designed by West Bromwich-based architect Alfred Long, and includes a sculpture of Christ by George Wade. He was active from 1888 to 1906, and also produced monuments such as the grade II-listed South Africa memorial in Norwich.

A major portion of the cost of the memorial was paid for by Ernest Stevens, the benevolent industrialist who also gifted the park and other green spaces in the area. Treasurer of the Quarry Bank branch of the Royal British Legion, Eric Homer, was delighted with recognition for the memorial.

Views are sought on prescriptions change

RESIDENTS' views are being sought in Dudley after a plan was proposed to stop prescribing medicines for short-term or minor conditions and ailments.

'Self-managing' medicines such as painkillers, hay fever tablets, wart and verruca creams, cough and cold remedies, antihistamines and some skin products would only be offered for long-term and chronic conditions, if the scheme goes through.

The borough's health chiefs say they spend about £2 million a year on widely available, over-the-counter medicines, while GPs spend an average of £5,000 every day seeing patients who have minor illnesses that could be treated with remedies bought over the counter.

Dudley Clinical Commissioning Group is asking residents to give their views on the proposed changes.

Look out for common triggers of acid reflux

Rich food and booze may be common culprits, but acid reflux triggers aren't always obvious, as Abi Jackson reports

ACID reflux affects around seven million Brits at some point or other.

We most commonly think of it in terms of heartburn – that nasty, burning sensation in the stomach, oesophagus (gullet) and sometimes back of the throat, often accompanied by a horrid taste in the mouth, which can be distressing.

As Dr Jonathan Aviv points out in his new book The Acid Watcher Diet (Hay House, £12.99), however, it can also cause other symptoms beyond heartburn, including a lump-like sensation in the throat that causes difficulty swallowing, chronic coughs, sore throats and hoarseness – often people may not realise these things are linked with acid reflux.

Many of us will experience a bit of acid reflux from time to time. Some people can be more prone to it though, and it can become an ongoing problem. It's important to pay your GP a visit if you've been experiencing acid reflux symptoms for a couple of weeks or more.

Certain things are known to be common triggers for the problem, such as heavy, rich meals and eating too fast. "Acid reflux can be caused by our eating habits; eating too much or eating too much of certain types of foods, especially fatty foods, and 'treating' ourselves more often. The stomach takes longer to get rid of stomach acid after digesting a fatty meal, which can result in excess acid. This can then leak up into the oesophagus and cause discomfort," explains Shona Wilkinson, nutritionist at www.superfoodUK.com.

"Consuming more alcohol, coffee or chocolate can relax the muscles at the bottom of the oesophagus, which can then lead to a burning sensation."

But what about less obvious triggers?

CHOCOLATE

In his book, Dr Aviv outlines a two-part plan to help combat acid reflux, along the way identifying a list of things to avoid – including chocolate. It contains methylxanthine, he notes, which increases stomach acid production.

SEED OILS

Rapeseed and sesame oil might be on trend right now, but Dr Aviv notes that while they have a borderline pH, often they're essentially acidic, due to chemicals involved in the extraction process. Switch to extra virgin olive oil instead.

SIT-UPS

They may be a go-to exercise for toning and honing those abs, but if you're prone to acid reflux, doing sit-ups can encourage gastric acid to flow upwards, resulting in symptoms, points out Dr Aviv.

CANNED SOUP AND VEG

Dr Aviv notes that dietary acid can be an aggravating factor. While some foods are known for being acidic, sometimes it's a little less obvious. Canned soups and vegetables, especially if pickled or fermented, are an example. Look out citric or ascorbic acid in the ingredients.

NOT CHEWING ENOUGH

Alison Cullen, nutrition therapist and health educator, advises to chew your food. "Try and savour the food that you eat, and chew each mouthful at least twenty times before your swallow."

TIGHT CLOTHES

An uncomfortably tight waistband, which puts pressure on the stomach, could make symptoms worse. So avoid clothing that is too tight, and wear a comfy waistband.

GETTING OLDER

Dr Sarah Brewer, GP and Healthspan medical director, points out that as we age, our digestive system becomes less effective. So the older you are, the more likely you are to suffer from heartburn.

STRESS

It's a factor in so many health conditions, and can worsen acid reflux symptoms too.

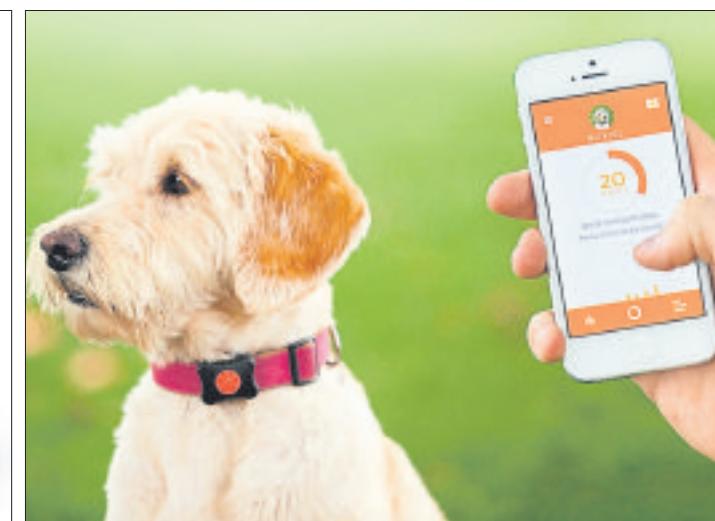

"Heightened stress and anxiety can also result in indigestion, often caused by stomach acid. To combat this, breathe deeply and slowly through your diaphragm in order to trigger the parasympathetic nervous system," suggests health psychologist Dr Megan Arroll.

SLEEPING ON YOUR RIGHT SIDE

Dr Brewer advises trying to sleep on your left side, if acid reflux is an issue. A study in the Journal of Clinical Gastroenterology found that sleeping on your left side is the best way to avoid heartburn at night.

Try a high-tech treat for your four-legged friend

By Julia Gray

AS Crufts rolled into Birmingham this week (March 9-12), treat your four-legged friend to the best tech treats...

CAUGHT ON CAMERA

ElectriQ Wi-Fi pet monitoring camera with audio, £39.97 from £49.97, www.laptopsdirect.co.uk

If you've ever wondered what your pooch gets up to when you're not at home, this camera might shed some light on the situation.

Hook it up to your smartphone and the camera will provide live HD streaming to your device.

And when you catch Fido hopping on the sofa – just as you suspected – you can call to him through the app (or offer reassurance if your dog is pining for you). You can also use the app to manoeuvre the camera so it focuses on another area in the room.

THIRSTY WORK

Drinkwell Platinum Pet Water Fountain, £46.99 from £49.99, Argos

This water fountain offers a tech hydration solution for thirsty pooches. All you do is add the filter, pour some tap water into the top of the device, put the lid back on and then plug into the mains. Adjust the speed at which the water flows to suit your pet and let them drink from the fountain.

Because the water is constantly circulated, it stays cool and any nasties are removed as it filters. The fountain is also suitable for moggies and its parts are dishwasher safe.

FUR YOUR EYES ONLY

Vileda Cleaning Robot, £149.99, shop.vileda.co.uk

The reality of owning a dog is that their fur ends up everywhere. Skirting boards, cushions, in the hardest-to-reach nooks and crannies – if there's even the teeniest space, you can guarantee fur will get in it.

Take the detritus to task with an intelligent hoover. Being a robotic cleaner, this one by Vileda requires little from you, save a bit of programming beforehand. With two counter-rotating brushes, it makes short work of ridding hard floors and carpets of pooch hair. You can use it on stairs too; the drop sensor ensures it won't crash down them.

DOG EAT DOG

TD Design 4.3L Automatic Pet Feeder for Dogs & Cats, £75.99 from £99.99, Amazon

Turn to tech to get you out of a tight spot with this automatic dog feeder. Although wet food is off the menu, you can add dry food to the dispenser and programme it to serve up meals to your dog at set times.

You can also select how many portions – from one to 10 – you want your pooch to have throughout the meal. The device allows recording, so, if you like, you can add a message, which will play three times before the device starts dispensing the goods, calling to the pet in question and alerting him that grub's up. Suitable for small to medium dogs and cats, a magnetic safety lid means your pet won't be able to snaffle snacks from the top of the gadget. You'll need three D batteries to keep it running.

ON THE RIGHT TRACK

PitPat Pet Monitor, £39.99, Argos

Fitness tech is a trend that continues to grow, with trackers, monitors and apps all designed to keep us aware of our activity (or non activity).

And now you can get your four-legged friend in on the action too.

This small device fits onto your dog's collar and connects to an app on your phone to monitor their activity levels.

There are 200 breeds on the app to ensure the data and guidelines on calories and activity are appropriate for your mutt.

GET THE BALL ROLLING

PetSafe Ball Launcher, £134.99, Argos

Throwing balls for a dog can get tiring if the dog in question has more energy and interest in fetching a ball than you do.

This is where technology can help. The PetSafe Ball Launcher is an investment, but it does relieve the pressure on tired arms.

Add the balls (it comes with two, but you can use ordinary tennis balls) to the device and programme it to launch them, either in your garden or at the park – you can choose up to nine different distances (of between 2.5-9m). To keep it going, either plug it in or add six D batteries so you can roam free. There's also an automatic rest mode to ensure your dog doesn't tire.

APP OF THE WEEK

BarkCam, free, iTunes

There's no question, you need to take lots of photos of your pet dog.

Upbringing no bar on comic licensee

There's a fine line between art and life. And while Al Murray is not really a pub landlord – he's actually a culturally rapacious, successful comic with a large house in Chiswick and a collection of Action Man-style dolls of people like Saddam Hussein and Winston Churchill – his character bears an uncanny resemblance to those who are perfectly, frighteningly real.

Take this, for instance, spoken in character: "Of course, the reason they are coming here is because this is the greatest country in the world. The only way to stop them is for a government to change that and make things a whole lot worse. Look no further. However, in the meantime we brick up the Channel Tunnel. With British bricks. Probably have to get some Poles in to do it. Common sense."

Murray is currently on tour in a post-Brexit, post-fact world. His new show is called Let's Go Backwards Together and it's been acclaimed by critics as his best. While Murray's character is resolutely commonsensical, the performer himself was educated at Bedford School and Oxford University and his ancestors include the 3rd Duke of Atholl, a bishop, an ambassador and William Makepeace Thackery, the 19th century novelist best known for his satirical works, particularly Vanity Fair, was his great-great grandfather.

EXASPERATED

Those impeccable credentials, however, mean nothing in the cauldron of stand-up. For Murray knows better than anyone: if you get a line wrong, there's nowhere to hide.

"I think that what some people don't realise is that there are gradations of posh. I have cousins who went to Eton. I think [people who went to] Eton, Harrow, they're properly posh. But my Dad worked for British Rail for 40 years, my mother worked for the Citizens Advice Bureau in Milton Keynes.

"We're resolutely downwardly mobile. With showbusiness, you can be as posh as you like, but if you're not delivering, then you won't get on. So I don't get annoyed, I'm just exasperated that it's supposed to say anything about me at all. I went to private school because my grandfather left some money for a grandson.

"I do accept that I am from a privileged background. I was lucky I went to private school. I know all those things. But I don't think they explain anything about me at all.

"There's an interesting idea about art right now – 'you're not allowed to imagine' seems to be the argument. So I'm not allowed to imagine what people might think, or send up how other people might think. That's an argument against art. That's an argument against creativity."

Murray's tour is under way around the UK and he'll return to Birmingham on May 22 to headline the city's REP theatre.

Murray added that his new show takes a humorous approach to the challenging era in which we live. "We live in troubling times. Europe. The NHS. Whatever the hell is going on in the Middle East. The gathering storm of fortnightly bin collections? Who knows where it will all end?"

Meanwhile, on the comedy scene this week, Jerry 'The King' Lawler, the King of Memphis and a WWE Hall of Famer, will bring his spoken word show to Birmingham's Glee Club on Wednesday.

The live, spoken word show will feature as many tales and experiences from 40 years on the road as it's possible to cram into one evening. Fans can look forward to a 'witty, articulate and impassioned' evening and they will also be able to ask their own questions. Comedy will also be in store at the Glee Club tonight and tomorrow with a line-up of Paul Thorne, Christian Schulte-Loh, Carl Donnelly and Tom Lucy. Thorne has been described by The Guardian as a 'must-see comedian' who regularly performs at The Comedy Store and has taken his unique brand of edgy and provocative topical gags, on the spot improvisation and surreal comedy songs as far afield as Dubai, Hong Kong, Thailand, Singapore, China and Japan.

You aren't allowed to imagine now – that's an argument against creativity.

Lucy, meanwhile, has been described by Harry Hill as being an outstanding young comic who is headed for great things. In the last year, he has supported the likes of Jack Whitehall, Russell Kane, Paul Chowdhry, Simon Amstell, Russell Howard and Sean Walsh. He is also the youngest comedian ever to play professionally at The Comedy Store.

Dream part – Liam Sargeant

Role model – Elvis Presley

Just Grand – music by 'King' and Liam is ready to reign

HE grew up on Elvis music and now Wolverhampton student Liam Sargeant is All Shook Up having landed his dream role singing songs made famous by 'the King'.

Liam will feature in the lead role of Chad when the rock 'n' roll musical is staged at Wolverhampton's Grand Theatre from Tuesday to Saturday, March 18.

Wolverhampton Musical Comedy Company (MUSCOM) will be celebrating the music of Elvis Presley in the new show set in small town America in 1955, as a musical revolution is about to happen. Fledgling actor and singer Liam has had to juggle rehearsals with studying English language and English literature at Oxford University. He said: "I'm commuting as many times as I can. Over Christmas we got as much done as we could and that was really good. There was quite a bit of time so we managed to set the whole show. But then it was time to go back to university and so it's not completely straightforward."

As Chad, Liam plays a guitar-playing roustabout who rides into a square little town. Suddenly, everyone and everything changes. Inspired by and featuring the songs of Elvis Presley, this lip-curving, hip-swivelling musical comedy is based on Shakespeare's Twelfth Night and will have fans rockin' out of their Blue Suede Shoes.

The classic hits will include Heartbreak

Hotel, Jailhouse Rock, Can't Help Falling In Love and many more.

Liam has been a regular with local amateur dramatics companies since a child. He said: "I've been singing my whole life and gradually started acting and dancing too. It's just something I've always done. I've always been involved in musical theatre.

"I've been part of lots of different companies in the Midlands. I've played with MUSCOM and both the West Bromwich and Bilston amateur operatic societies. MUSCOM are great. I really enjoy being part of the team and I think this is my fourth show with them."

Nothing beats coming home, however, and the Wolverhampton performer always enjoys playing at the Grand.

Shirley comedy proves to be ultimate escape

It's been 31 years since Willy Russell's heart-warming comedy, Shirley Valentine, took the world by storm.

It told the story of a Liverpool housewife whose kids have left home and she makes egg and chips for her husband every day, while talking to the wall. Then she escapes... to Greece.

The show was adapted into an Oscar-nominated film, starring Pauline Collins and Tom Conti, and now Jodie Prenger (pictured) is starring in the first major revival of this national treasure, which continues a week-long run at Birmingham's New Alexandra Theatre until Saturday.

Jodie found fame on Andrew Lloyd Webber's TV show to find a star in I'd Do Anything and was subsequently cast as Nancy in his 2009 production of Oliver!

Her recent theatre credits have included UK tours of Camelot, Tell Me On A Sunday and One Man, Two Guvnors, and a stint last festive season at the Birmingham Hippodrome panto.

SURPRISES

Then gritty Irish soul musical The Commitments, based on Roddy Doyle's book, which was also made into a movie by Alan Parker, is staged at the Alex from Monday to Saturday, March 18.

The story about the ups and downs of a Dublin R&B band includes former Coronation Street star Kevin Kennedy.

On adapting the story for the stage, Roddy Doyle says: "I hadn't planned to write it myself but then I did. I really enjoyed it.

We had met with a number of impressive writers but I found I was answering all the questions the producers and I were asking them."

On selecting the songs, Doyle says: "I wanted to go for well-known songs, but also there to be a few surprises in there.

"Soul often isn't about the song itself, it's about the way it is sung or how it's interpreted. The songs were chosen because they help tell the story."

The show is not only packed with great songs but is also laugh out loud funny.

Doyle adds: "It was always going to be a comedy. It's about a band so it doesn't touch on life or death, you can say 'music is life and death to me', but it's not."

There is musical nostalgia coming to the Alex soon with You've Got A Friend: The Music of James Taylor and Carole King on March 21 and One Night of Elvis with Lee 'Memphis' King on March 23.

Will You join 80s star Hazel at the Robin 2?

Eighties New Wave star Hazel O'Connor, who found fame in the film Breaking Glass, will perform in Bilston next Wednesday.

The singer-songwriter, from Coventry, recently celebrated the 35th anniversary of the film whose soundtrack, including Will You and Eight Day, went platinum and reached number five in the British album charts.

She will be joined on The Robin 2 stage by Clare Hirst, who has played sax with the Bellestars, Communards and David Bowie, and keyboards player Sarah Fisher who performed with the Eurythmics.

Nostalgia that promises fans a Wail-ers of a time

More eighties nostalgia at Birmingham Town Hall on Sunday with a line-up including Paul Young, Toyah, China Crisis and, from America, Martika. Yes fans will be out in force at Symphony Hall on Monday for a sold-out gig by ARW, which is (Jon) Anderson, (Trevor) Rabin and (Rick) Wakeman. Coinciding with One Love: The Bob Marley Musical at Birmingham Rep (until April 8), Marley's former musicians The Wailers have a one-off gig at Birmingham O2 Academy on Wednesday including originals Aston 'Familyman' Barrett, Tyrone Downie, Junior Marvin, Donald Kinsey and Earl 'Wya' Lindo.

Geri Horner

Railway Nation: Across Britain in a Day (BBC2, 9pm)

Geri Horner follows in the footsteps of Tom Jones, Keith Richards, Boy George and Jazzy B by revisiting the decade that has defined her life and career to date. For Geri, that decade is the 1990s, when she shot to international stardom as Ginger Spice. At the height of her Spice Girls fame, Geri helped to ensure 'Girl Power' dominated the 'Cool Britannia' scene with her iconic Union Jack dress, and here she reflects on how a working-class girl from Watford came to symbolise the gender politics of a turbulent era. She also discusses the key political and social moments of the '90s, including Nelson Mandela's release, the birth of New Labour and the launch of the World Wide Web.

Uhtred makes plans for revenge as series returns

The last time we saw Alfred (David Dawson), he was hiding in a swamp with Uhtred (Alexander Dreymon).

In the series one finale, the two came together to take on the Danes, who have conquered almost all the kingdoms in the realm. So, what will Alfred find on his road in season 2, as he sets his sights on the wild lands of the north?

Well, for starters, he finds a lot of suffering. With no army to defend them, his people were left to fend for themselves, and many of them lost their wealth and lives due to raids by the Danes and others.

But Alfred's conviction to create a united England is stronger than ever, and he targets the wild lands of the north, which have fallen into chaos and rebellion.

Uhtred, meanwhile, went through a subtle transformation in series one. The warrior's fiery temper cooled a little and during his time with Alfred in the marshlands, he also felt sympathy for him on account of the suffering of the king's child.

The character was willing to learn and change after his interactions with the Saxons, but this change is unlikely to be welcome to many of the other Danes.

So Alfred and Uhtred now have to find a way to fight back the Danes, and the latter also embarks on a voyage north to avenge Earl Ragnar's death and recapture his ancestral lands of Bebbanburg.

The pair's main nemesis this time around looks to be Guthrum (Thomas W Gabrielsson), Ubba's second-in-command who is both intelligent, ruthless and unrhinged.

This bloody Viking vs Saxon series is adapted by BAFTA-nominated and RTS award-winning writer Stephen Butchard from Bernard Cornwell's bestselling series of novels.

It is set in the ninth century at a time when many of the separate kingdoms of England have fallen to the invading Vikings, with only the great kingdom of Wessex left standing and defiant under the command of King Alfred the Great.

The emotionally complex and compelling landscape of revenge, rivalry, hostility, corruption, love, sex, loyalty and friendship forms the backdrop to a gripping adventure, and such has been its popularity overseas, this second series has seen Netflix climb aboard to co-produce the series along with the BBC.

Dreymon (American Horror Story) and Dawson (Peaky Blinders) return as the two leads, and they are reunited with Emily Cox (Homeland) who stars as Brida, Ian Hart (Boardwalk Empire) who plays Beocca and Tobias Santelmann (Marcella) as Ragnar the Younger from the first series.

The Last Kingdom has been described as 'the thinking person's Game of Thrones.'

And although the series may not ever be a popular as that – let's not forget it is an historical drama rather than a fantasy series – it certainly fills the gap for viewers thirsty for battles, gore, hairy warriors with swords and famous actors meeting grisly ends.

The Last Kingdom, Thursday, BBC2, 9pm

BEST OF THE REST

MONDAY*Match of the Day Live: The FA Cup*BBC1, 7.30pm

Chelsea v Manchester United (Kick-off 7.45pm). Coverage of the sixth-round tie, which takes place at Stamford Bridge, as the two Premier League giants fight for a semi-final place. Antonio Conte's side are flying high in the league at present, and are firm favourites to lift the trophy at the end of the season. Jose Mourinho's Red Devils are the current holders of the FA Cup and are still in the domestic title hunt, but the Portuguese will probably see this competition as a more likely opportunity of silverware. The Blues ran out 4-0 winners the last time the sides met in the league back in October, thanks to goals from Pedro, Gary Cahill, Eden Hazard and N'Golo Kante.

TUESDAY*Inside No 9*BBC2, 10pm

One of the things that makes Inside No 9 so compelling is that while some of the darkly comic tales make their gothic intentions clear from the start, others begin with what sound like everyday premises before spiralling off in some very unexpected directions. Take this week's instalment for example in which a couple's world is changed for ever by what appears to be an innocuous discovery. Louise (guest star Keeley Hawes) and David (Reece Shearsmith) have a young daughter, a lovely house and a seemingly ordinary life. But then David finds a single black shoe and brings it home with him. Admittedly, a few people would question that decision, but for this family the shoe becomes a life-changing obsession that threatens to come between them.

WEDNESDAY*The Royal House of Windsor*Channel 4, 9pm

The fascinating story of the Windsor dynasty continues, this week charting the drama and intrigue associated with Prince Charles' love-life. It begins by looking at how, during the late 1970s, the Prince of Wales resolved to avoid repeating the mistakes of his great uncle, King Edward VIII, and sought advice on marriage from another great uncle – Lord Mountbatten. Taking Charles under his wing, Mountbatten arranged a secret meeting in Paris between the heir and his disgraced 'Uncle David'. However the exiled king's example fails to stop Charles falling in love with an unsuitable woman, who ends up marrying one of her past boyfriends. Returning to his first love, Camilla Parker Bowles – now a mother of two – stability continues to elude the prince. And pressure from all sides prompts him to turn his eye to Lady Diana Spencer.

THURSDAY*Shop Well for Less?*BBC1, 8pm

Katy and Wayne Williams love designer clothes – and their passion for labels has been passed on to their eight-year-old daughter Holly, who is already very brand aware. Unfortunately, their taste for luxury comes at a price, and the couple's credit card bills are spiralling out of control – which is where Alex Jones and Steph McGovern come in. They head to North Wales to change the family's ways, and their first act is set up a pop-up shop filled with the Williams' belongings to make them face up to the reality of their splurges. The presenters then set about replacing some of the family's usual brands with cheaper alternatives, before taking away some of their luxuries, from hairpieces to expensive nights out. But while this leads to the Williams spending less cash – and more time together – will they be inspired to make a permanent change?

FRIDAY*Tony Robinson: Coast to Coast*Channel 5, 8pm

The actor and history buff steps off the beaten track to reveal the fascinating religious and industrial heritage that underscores the near-200-mile stretch of lush and diverse countryside along northern England. Venturing from the west to the east, his journey begins in the village of St Bees where he asks: why does such a small community have such a colossal church? The morning's exploits leave Tony hungry, and he seizes the opportunity to discover the upper crust origins of the scotch egg in the Lake District. Then, at the region's most westerly lake, Tony meets a farmer taking a pioneering approach to protect the natural environment, before trying his hand at brewing the perfect pint of craft ale. The first leg of Tony's journey comes to an end at England's most remote youth hostel, Black Sail Hut.

Make a night of it

Severn heaven – Al Murray is on at Theatre Severn in Shrewsbury

Comedian Al Murray is on at the Theatre Severn tonight and we're calling time please. The Ticket's here to help you enjoy some laughs with the Pub Landlord giving you the lowdown on all the best places to be...

MEAL TICKET

If true Brit Al Murray was heading out for eats before the gig, he would probably head to the nearest traditional boozer for some good old fashioned pub grub. Happy days as The Foundry is on site at the theatre and is all about British food. With dishes on the menu such as chicken liver pâté to start followed by rump steak with triple cooked chips or chicken supreme with creamy mash you're spoilt for choice. There are some tasty desserts too... spiced orange cake or brownie with chocolate sauce. Yum, yes please. If you fancy doing an 'Al Murray U-turn' when it comes to fodder, try some foreign fare at Bistro Jacques. It's fine French dining with rustic dishes that will have you saying bonjour for more.

IN THE DRINK

Where would Pub Landlord Al Murray go before a night out? A typical stop off for a quick pint and a packet of crisps would be The Coach and Horses in the town centre. The traditional and cosy Victorian pub is tucked away on a side street, Swan Hill, and is an authentic British boozer with a small side snug and a lounge bar to kick back and relax. Small sherry for the ladies?

SLEEP ON IT

If you fancy a sleepover after a night of belly laughs then there are several options in the pretty riverside town.

BARGAIN BUNK-UP

For the more cash-strapped gig-goer the best place to lay your weary head would be the Premier Inn in the centre of Shrewsbury. It's easy to get to as it's a stone throw from the theatre over the other side of the river, so you can enjoy a nice gentle walk before bed. With rooms from £41 a night it won't break the bank and you'll be sure to have some spare cash for more theatre tickets.

SPEND, SLEEP, REPEAT

If you fancy a more luxurious night of kip then book in to the four-star Prince Rupert Hotel in the town centre. It's a gentle stroll from the theatre and has plenty of fancy room options with many having views of the historic and famous 12th Century St. Alkmund's Church and the Tudor Bear Steps or overlooking the 12th Century Mansion House courtyard garden. Visit the website to get the best price. Treat yourself!

DRIVE TIME

WHEEL DEAL

The best way to get to Theatre Severn is by driving. Good news is that it's located right next to Frankwell Car Park and you'll only have to pay before 6pm, so it's perfect for showtime and will avoid additional expense. If you're using a SatNav just type in the postcode SY3 8HQ and it will get you straight to the theatre. # Exciting times with latest Ford Performance models

Race car thrills are being transferred to the road

Ford has delivered its most exciting and comprehensive line-up of Ford Performance models ever.

Introducing an all-new 200 PS, three-cylinder 1.5-litre EcoBoost petrol engine that will deliver an unprecedented combination of power and fuel efficiency, the next generation Fiesta ST is developed using the same Ford Performance innovation mindset that delivered the Ford GT ultra-high-performance supercar, on show in Ford GT '66 Heritage Edition livery for the first time in Europe at the Geneva Show.

Ford's Performance car offering in Europe also includes the Focus ST petrol and diesel models, the acclaimed Focus RS, and the iconic Ford Mustang. Ford Performance car sales grew a further 14 per cent year-on-year in January, after recording a 60 per cent increase in 2016 – continuing the momentum from 2015 when performance car sales were up 62 per cent.

"Accessible performance is at the heart of what we do at Ford," said Jim Farley, European chairman and CEO. "From the active aerodynamics of the Ford GT supercar to the Drive Modes of our next generation Fiesta ST, our Ford Performance models are developed using innovation that brings the driving thrill of our race cars to customers on the road."

Ford Performance serves as an innovation laboratory and test-bed to create unique performance vehicles, parts, accessories and experiences for customers. This includes developing innovations and technologies in aerodynamics, light-weighting, electronics, powertrain performance and fuel efficiency that can be applied more broadly to Ford products.

The third generation of Fiesta ST will be the first Ford Performance model ever powered by a three-cylinder engine and the first Fiesta ST to feature selectable Drive Modes.

Ford's all-new 1.5-litre EcoBoost petrol engine will deliver 200PS, 290Nm of torque and anticipated 0-62mph acceleration in 6.7sec, using innovations including a new combination of port fuel injection and direct fuel injection, sophisticated turbocharging, and innovative new cylinder deactivation technology to deliver high power and responsiveness alongside reduced CO2 emissions.

New Drive Modes will enable engine, steering and stability controls to be configured to Normal, Sport and Track settings for an optimised fun-to-drive experience, and adjust the model's Electronic Sound Enhancement technology and active exhaust noise control valve to deliver an even more satisfying driving experience by amplifying the naturally sporty sound of the three-cylinder engine.

The next generation Fiesta ST also will be offered with a greater variety of interior trim and personalisation options than ever before, and will be available in both three-door and five-door bodystyles from early 2018.

The Ford GT is shown in limited edition Ford GT '66 Heritage Edition livery in Geneva. The model honours Ford's 1966 Le Mans victory, offering a Shadow Black exterior in either gloss or matte finish with silver stripes and exposed carbon fibre; Frozen White #2 hood and door graphics; and 20-inch one-piece forged aluminium wheels in a gold satin clearcoat with black lug nuts.

All Ford GT supercars feature a state-of-the-art 10-inch digital instrument display. The customisable screen features text and race-inspired graphics intended to help reduce driver distraction, and automatically reconfigures itself based on five unique Drive Modes: Normal mode, Wet mode, Sport mode, Track mode and V-Max mode.

The Ford GT's 3.5-litre V6 EcoBoost engine is SAE rated at 647hp and 550lb ft of torque in U.S. specification. A top speed of 216mph makes the Ford GT the fastest Ford production vehicle on the track ever. The road-going Ford GT – featuring carbon fibre architecture and active aerodynamics – reflects the performance of the 2016 Le Mans 24 Hours-winning Ford Chip Ganassi Racing Ford GT race car.

Vauxhall launches three new models

Vauxhall this week revealed three all-new models at the Geneva Motor Show including the Insignia Grand Sport, Insignia Sports Tourer and Crossland X.

Following on from the previous generation, which won the European Car of the Year in 2009, and sold over 25,000 in the UK last year, the Insignia is based completely on a new vehicle architecture. Its revised proportions result in a more spacious interior, giving the car a more athletic appearance and an improved road stance.

There is a raft of top technologies that make driving the Insignia safer, more relaxing and more comfortable than before. Next-generation IntelliLux LED matrix lighting, Lane Keep Assist, Head-up Display and unique AGR-certified premium seats, front- and rear-seat heating and a heated wind screen are just some examples.

Outstanding infotainment and connectivity are also on board thanks to the latest generation IntelliLink systems and Vauxhall OnStar, which with the launch of the Insignia Grand Sport, will offer even more functionality for customers. New OnStar features allow occupants to book hotel rooms and search for suitable parking spots via an OnStar Advisor.

Crisp and compact on the outside, spacious and flexible on the inside, with unique two-tone paintwork and SUV-styling, Vauxhall's all-new Crossland X makes its debut.

While the Crossland X's recently-launched sibling, the Mokka X, has all-wheel-drive capability, is 70mm higher and has larger wheels for buyers with a taste for adventure, the Crossland X has a firm family focus, with a Tardis-like cabin providing high degrees

Vauxhall's all-new Crossland X has all-wheel drive

The Grand Sport has outstanding infotainment

Vauxhall showcases in Switzerland include the new Insignia Sports Tourer with a raft of new technologies of practicality and flexibility. And at just 4.21 metres in length the Crossland X is more compact than the Mokka X, and a full 16cm shorter than the Astra Hatch, offering owners greater convenience while driving and manoeuvring in towns and cities. Adding to Crossland X's urban appeal is an elevated seating position and an overall height, which is raised ten centimetres above the Astra's. Exceptional driver and passenger comfort has been an obvious priority for a car entering this class. The Crossland X has specially designed AGR-certified seats for the driver and front passenger, while rear passengers can adjust their seating position to increase leg room.

Additional innovations in the Crossland X make driving safer and more comfortable, and include a 180-degree panoramic rear-view camera, advanced park assist, forward collision alert with pedestrian detection and autonomous emergency braking, lane departure warning, speed sign recognition and side blind-spot alert, among others.

Vauxhall Exclusive allows customers to select their car in the colour of their choice. It also allows customers to decide on one of three distinctive paint finishes: tri-coat, metallic paint and pearl. In addition, Vauxhall Exclusive will offer further personalisation including leather options, a selection of wheels and decorative design elements.

Battle of the sexes on the green baize

THE Golden Cue Snooker Club in Bilston hosts a battle of the sexes tomorrow night (Friday).

Former world champion Ken Doherty will be checking in to play a series of exhibition frames with Dudley's 11-time women's world champion Renanne Evans.

The showdown is in aid of the Paul Hunter foundation and the duo will also be cueing off against a number of local players before the evening concludes with winners having the chance to team up alongside them.

The night has been organised by world snooker coach Andrew Highfield, who plays alongside Evans for Sedgley Ex-Servicemen in the Staffs and West Midlands League and who is a close friend of Doherty.

The night will provide some last-minute practice for Evans, who was edged out 10-8 by Doherty in the 2015 World Championship qualifiers, as she prepares to defend her world title in Singapore. She will fly out the following morning.

"It promises to be a good night and there are still tickets up for grabs," said Highfield. Tickets cost £10 and are available from the Golden Cue club on 01902 404343 or from Lee Edwards on 07834 723836.

Nostalgia trip to get Town's old boys in the book

SPORTING MEMORIES

By Nick Elwell

"Young and old, local folk, anyone who has a story to tell relating to the club, we want to hear it"

BILSTON TOWN are looking for some help as they plan a trip down memory lane.

The West Midlands League outfit want to put tales from the club's past down in print and are calling on fans, former players and committee members to come forward with their anecdotes, memories and special moments from the Steelmen's past.

Local author and club historian Jay Hearst has been commissioned to follow up the successful 'History of Bilstion Town FC' book he penned in 2015 with a publication based on the more human side of Bilstion Town, rather than its factual past. And chairman Graham Hodson is keen to spread the word.

He said: "Christmas 2015 saw us publish a book, written by Jay, The History of Bilstion Town FC, which was particularly well received.

Anecdotes

"Based on the success of that, and the feedback received, we've commissioned Jay to write a second book," added Hodson, who has been chairman since 2009. He said this time the book would recall anecdotes, memories and moments from former and current players, management and supporters.

"We are looking for stories of the characters that played for or supported Bilstion down the years and we want players, supporters, managers or committee members to recall their most memorable games, momentous occasions or cup runs.

"Young and old, local folk, anyone who has a story to tell relating to the club, we want to hear it,

"The aim is to obtain as many stories, anecdotes or memories as possible, compile and collate them, then publish them in a book. Some of the stories we have already received make fantastic, nostalgic reading."

The late 50s and 60s were arguably the club's boom time and Hodson is especially keen to get players from that era involved and hopefully those that played in the first round FA Cup clash with Halifax at Queen Street in 1968.

The Steelmen made the second round of the competition in 1972, when they were edged out 1-0 in a replay on home soil by Barnet.

"The late 50s and 60s were great times for the club," added Hodson. "Players such as Ron McDermott were legends for the club. He scored 76 goals in one season and that is still a record for the Birmingham Works/West Midlands League.

"The FA Cup matches against Halifax and Barnet were also great occasions. We lost 1-0 to Barnet with QPR waiting in round three.

"We also had a good period when Joe Jackson was here in the 90s and former Wolves player Steve Daley, who was once Britain's most expensive footballer, also managed us for a while.

"We formed a former players' association a few years ago and when we meet up the old players have always got a story to tell."

Riders rev up for the start of season

TESTING times lie ahead for British Superbike riders and teams as they split their time between the cold UK circuits and the warmer climes of Spain.

With less than a month before the BSB opener at Donington Park, Brierley Hill-born Michael Rutter is happy to wait until a week before the first race before declaring whether to run a superstock or superbike. He might even run both, depending on how testing goes.

"We're still waiting until after the final Donington Park test on March 23 and 24 before making a decision," he said. "We're also hoping to get a test date in Spain and we're happy to leave it until the last minute."

Meanwhile, the Wigley twins, aged 20, from Hednesford, will battle it out on two different fronts. Kurt will race in the British Superstock 600 championship, on his Yamaha R6, but Matt has decided to step up an engine size for the British Superstock 1000 class on a new Kawasaki ZX10R.

Josh Hiatt, 14, from Heath Hayes, is making the step up to race in the British KTM Cup after turning down the chance to return to the Metrakit series or join the Aprilia Championships.

Hearn eggs on Sam for big pay day

STOURBRIDGE'S Sam Eggington has been promised another big fight by promoter Eddie Hearn following his stunning eighth round knockout of former two-weight world champion Paulie Malignaggi.

Eggington, aged 23, caught Malignaggi with a rib-cracking left hook and clipped him with a right for good measure as he fell to canvas during round eight on Saturday.

The American retired after the fight. Eggington was already mandatory challenger for the European belt, which he hopes to challenge for in Birmingham in May.

Eggington took to Twitter to thank fans for their support after the biggest win of his career on the undercard Haye versus Bellew. And he also promised Hearn he would be ready for the next challenge on May 13.

Meanwhile, Brixwich fighter 'Cool Hand' Luke Paddock outclassed Lukasz Janik in the main event at Walsall Town Hall on Saturday.

The 25-year-old couldn't find the stoppage he was searching for but he impressed on his way to a 60-54 landslide victory over his Polish opponent.

Wolverhampton's Kyle Williams did well to keep composed against the aggressive Craig Derbyshire and earned a one-sided result.

The 25-year-old showed good footwork in the first couple of rounds to open up the angles against his capable opponent. Williams was confident throughout and kept a low guard but the most damaging shot Derbyshire landed was a headbutt in the fourth round which the referee scolded him for.

Williams remained calm and targeted the body whilst ensuring he kept out of trouble to secure a 60-55 victory.

Tipton's Ricky Summers took out his frustrations on opponent Remigius Ziausys after a British title fight against Frank Buglioni fell through.

The 29-year-old worked the jab well and landed some punishing blows which Ziausys did well to take. Summers landed flush with a powerful left-right combination in the fifth but his Lithuanian opponent absorbed the damage and gave the Summers the rounds he needed in a 60-54 victory.

Old Hill's Manny 'Pac Man' Zaber was sharp from the outset as he got back to winning ways against Ricky Leach.

Town's chess club in relegation zone

STOURBRIDGE Chess Club played at Merica on Monday in a re-arranged Dudley division 2 match. Martin Berridge, Jeremy Humphries and Chris Cox all won with Tony Shaw drawing on board 1 to give Stourbridge a convincing 3½ - ½ win. On Wednesday Halesowen visited for a Birmingham Division 2 match which Stour were denied to win. Julie Wilson and Greg Dwyett both accepted draw offers. John Foxall won with a back row mate so Stour were ahead. Draws for Dave Scriven and Eric Horwill made it 3-2 to Stour. Paul Sharratt lost to make it a drawn match with Stourbridge left in the relegation zone.

Day to remember for young rugby fan

Aran with Billy Vunipola

A RUGBY fan from Pedmore Technology College got the experience of a lifetime when he unveiled his school's new Canterbury rugby shirt in front of thousands at Twickenham ahead of England's Six Nations clash with Italy.

The opportunity came as part of the CBRE All Schools programme, launched in 2012 by the Rugby Football Union, which aims to get more state secondary schools playing rugby and encourage students to join local clubs.

Aran Palmer was one of 100 students from across England who took to the pitch before kick-off, unveiling their school's newly designed shirts ahead of the national anthems.

The 13-year-old admitted the whole day – which also saw him meet CBRE All Schools Ambassador and England international Billy Vunipola, line up on the pitch for the anthems and then sit in the crowd to watch the action – would live long in the memory.

"I was so excited about being on the pitch at Twickenham," said Palmer. "The design for our shirt was inspired by the school and our area. We live near a river which is why the shirt is in blue and the horizontal stripes across it are meant to be waves."

"On the back we have the school logo as well and we have the Olympic torch on our sleeve."

Each shirt was individually designed by the school children at Canterbury kit design workshops last year.

England and Saracens No 8 Vunipola said: "The atmosphere in Twickenham on match day is very special and it's fantastic that the students got to experience it first-hand."

Glassboys edge out Gladiators

Stourbridge 5 Matlock Town 3

THE Glassboys set themselves up for Tuesday night's derby clash with Halesowen, improving their Evo-Stik Premier promotion prospects to boot, by edging out Matlock in an eight-goal thriller.

Seven goals came in the first half, full-back Darryl Westlake getting the ball rolling with a second minute wonder strike from fully 45 yards in front of an 800-plus Amblecote crowd.

The sixth-placed visitors were level by the sixth minute when Marc Newsham headed home a pinpoint left-wing cross from Ted Cribbley. Stourbridge regained the lead on nine minutes with a 25-yard free-kick from the league's leading scorer Luke Benbow.

By the 16th minute, Stourbridge had made it 3-1 when Benbow surprised the Gladiators with another free-kick. This time it was played short to Shrewsbury Town loanee Ethan Jones, whose shot on the turn was blocked by Matlock goalkeeper Phil Barnes only for Jordan Archer to slot home the loose ball.

Back came Matlock to make it 3-2 on ten minutes, Glassboys keeper Matt Gould unable to hold on to Marcus Dinganga's powerful shot.

It was 4-2 on 25 minutes, Jones netting after Matlock failed to clear a Tom Tonks corner. The goals continued to flow, Matlock making it 4-3 from the penalty spot after 28 minutes when the pacy Dinganga broke free but was brought down by Gould who was lucky to escape with a yellow card. Dinganga got up to convert.

Stourbridge eventually settled the contest when Benbow crossed from the left for Tonks to turn home a fifth goal at the near post on 72 minutes.

Matlock had Nial McManus sent off after picking up two yellow cards.

Heathens tipped to make a challenge

SPORTS broadcaster Nigel Pearson has given the new-look Cradley Heathens side the thumbs-up ahead of the season launch party tomorrow night (Friday).

All seven riders will be at the Liberal Club on Upper High Street, Cradley Heath, from 7.30pm to meet fans and present the new race jacket. All money raised will go between the riders to help with their pre-season expenses.

Pearson, part of the Heathens management team, is backing Heathens to challenge for honours. He said: "I like the way the team has been put together. I feel we can be up there challenging."

Stourbridge captain Ciaran Moore secures a line out throw during a dire day at Chester

Pedmore overcome a sluggish start

Pedmore (122-2) beat Hagley B (91-3) by 31 runs

PEDMORE, batting first in the Kinver Indoor Cricket League, got off to a sluggish start finding runs hard to come by.

At the halfway stage, the Pedmore score was just 39, but the next six overs produced 82 runs. Dan Jones was 25 no. Hagley

B's openers scored well in reply and they were in front of the run rate at halfway.

But the scoring dropped after the openers retired, aided by three overs of quick bowling from Taylor.

Hagley A (142-2) beat Oldswinford (82-3) by 42 runs

A BRILLIANT one-handed catch by Paddy Addis removed opener Mike Stead in the third over, but then the score rattled on to 108 for the second wicket.

Jack and Harry Stanier moved the scoring on but Kingswinford were ultimately unable to keep up with the run rate.

Jack Stanier took two wickets and hit 25 no.

This is a unique event, we urgently need to clear out huge stocks from our showrooms and warehouses, to make way for an unprecedented number of exciting new collections for Spring 2017, plus further reductions on all end of sale items.

As the economy and subsequent demand continues to strengthen, the success of our new galleries and brands plus a surge of innovative new designs at recent trade shows has led to us ordering an extraordinarily high volume of new season displays and associated stock.

With their imminent arrival, we must immediately dispose of vast quantities of sofas, chairs, beds, dining, bedroom and occasional furniture plus accessories and rugs at unbelievably low prices, including all the trusted brands.

ALL STOCK MUST BE CLEARED - SOME AT COST OR EVEN LESS!!
THERE WILL ALSO BE BIG DISCOUNTS OFF ALL SPECIAL MADE TO ORDER ITEMS.
